DETAILED ACTION

1. The amendment filed February 23, 2004 has been received and entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ausherman (U.S. Patent No. 4,136,826) in view of Cviki (U.K. Patent 927,917).

Ausherman teaches a spray boom having three-dimensional structure (see Fig.

- 1). The structure has a triangular cross section of which is substantially isosceles.

Ausherman has all the features of the invention but Ausherman failed to teach a structure having two flat ladders, each ladder comprises an upper beam connected to a lower beam by girders and lower cross beams. Cviki teaches a structure having two flat ladders (see Fig. 1) (2-2), each ladder comprises an upper beam (2) and connected to a lower beam by girders (1) and lower cross beams (1). The structure comprises two upper beams (2) of which are side by side (see Fig. 1-5) and lower cross beams (1) hold the two ladders together to form a convergent three-dimensional structure. It would have been obvious to one skilled artisan in the art to modify the teachings of Ausherman and combine with Cviki to have a spray boom having two flat ladders, each ladder comprises an upper beam connected to a lower beam by girders and the ladders are connected by cross beams to provide a stronger spraying boom. Both Ausherman and Cviki do not teach at least one of the girders and the upper beam of one of the ladders formed at an angle of 90 degrees and hollow beams; However, Cviki teaches a mean to join the girder(s) with the upper beam (2) at an alpha angle (see Fig. 3).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled artisan in the art to have made at least one of the girders and the upper beam of one of the ladders formed at an angle of 90 degrees to provide a stronger joint for the beam; therefore, to make the beam stronger and hollow beams to reduce the overall weight of the spray boom. Methods follow by apparatus.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-20 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
